LARGER ACREAGE OF CLOVERS, ALFALFA, OTHER LEGUMES-1931

All signs point to increased seeding of Red and Alsike Clovers, Sweet Clover, Alfalfa, Soy Beans and other legumes this Spring. The Department of Agriculture, The International Crop Improvement Association, and better farming agencies everywhere are promoting it. Pastures and meadows burnt out by drought must be re-seeded. Current hay prices make hay crops more profitable than they have been in years. Already a strong early demand for legume seeds is in evidence.

INCREASED EARLY DEMAND FOR INOCULATION ALREADY SHOWS

Larger seedings of legume hay crops naturally require greater use of inoculants. Adding to the normal growth in the practice of inoculation the extra stimulus of greater seedings, it is plain to see that 1930 sales of inoculation will exceed all records. Inoculation sells easily at the time the seed is sold or delivered. The dealer who has a full line of inoculation on hand from the start of the season will cash in big with this highly profitable item this season.
